The origin of Valkenburg as roman army town at the Limes (nominated for Unesco World Heritage) can be seen in the Torenmuseum.

In the Middle Ages Rijnsburg was known for its Benedictine abbey for noble women, founded by Petronella van Saksen. In Museum Oud-Rijnsburg you can learn more about the history of Rijnsburg. In the 17th century a Protestant association, the Collegiants, arose. The Jewish philosopher Spinoza wrote his life's work, Ethics, in Rijnsburg. In his former house (the Spinoza House) you can find an exhibition.
